

MACHINES OF THE IMAGINATION

A fun day of practical music-making

Coldharbour Mill invites schools to a creative music workshop bringing the national curriculum for music to life

Pupils will

- ~ analyse the sounds of machines on the factory floor
- ~ create machine sounds using voice, percussion & musical instruments
- ~ combine their sounds to devise a piece of improvised music

Pupils are may bring their own instruments (clarinet, flute etc.) too.
Even absolute beginners will be able to play their instruments to re-create machine sounds and to be part of a devised and improvised piece of music.

Aims & objectives

- ~ to sing & to use the voice creatively
- ~ to play musical instruments
- ~ to encourage children to be aware of sounds around them
- ~ to work as a team to create a piece of improvised music

The workshop will culminate in a performance of the devised piece.
Teachers may wish to record the performance as a record of the day and perhaps for their school website.

Suitable for all age groups;

music-making will be tailored to suit the age & ability of the participants

fees

- ~ pupils £6.00
- ~ one teacher free with every ten pupils
- ~ additional adults £3.50
